Michael DiSalle Conferring With Amish Leaders

Group's Spokesman
Says Fathers Ready
'To Become Martyrs'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle conferred with three Amish leaders Friday about their school problem. DiSalle said one of the trio told him that Amish fathers "were ready to become martyrs and go to jail to support their beliefs."

The statement was made by Henry Hershberger, of Apple Creek, who acted as spokesman for the three, the governor said. The other two were Andy Weaver of Fredericksburg and Dan Weaver of Millersburg.

The Amish, a religious sect, are heavily concentrated in the Wayne and Holmes County area where the three reside.

Their talk with the governor was closed to the press at their request. DiSalle later filled in newsmen on what was discussed.

He said the Amish told him that their only quarrel with the state is on the minimum standards of education of their own and "no interference with their doctrines or religion."

Were Nice About It

"They were very nice about it," DiSalle said. "They expressed their belief that they must pay taxes and said they believed in education and were perfectly willing for others to do what they want, but felt that they should have separate schools in accordance with their religious beliefs."

They said that when their 14 to 16-year-old children are thrown in with other school children, "That is when we lose them."

The Amish leaders presented the governor with a copy of what they called "their new standards of education."

DiSalle said the men "are certainly sincere in their position," but that their standards were "from the old copy book." The standards, he said, called for 160 days of schooling each year with five hours attendance the maximum daily requirement.

The governor said he promised the Amish delegation two things: "First, I will ask the State Board of Education for its views on the problem, especially as to possible legislation for the Amish leaders said they might seek in the General Assembly."

"Second, I will ask for both formal and informal opinions of educators of all segments to consider if the interests of the public parallels the religious convictions of these people and to make certain there is no conflict."

One of the problems involved, DiSalle explained, is to find out what effect, if any, granting of special privileges to one group might have on the entire public educational system; and what, if any, exception can be or should be made.

Cuba Tribunal Rejects Appeal Of Morejon

HAVANA (AP) — Former Army Capt. Pedro Morejon today awaited execution as a war criminal after his appeal was denied by Cuba's supreme revolutionary tribunal.

The tribunal rejected Morejon's appeal from a lower court death sentence on charges of assassination, homicide, robbery, incendiarism and damage.

A Havana radio station said it understood Morejon would face a firing squad today but this could not be officially confirmed.

The only recourse left to Morejon under the revolutionary penal code is a direct appeal to revolutionary leader Fidel Castro, now commander in chief of the nation's armed forces.

Morejon's execution would be the first in the Havana area. An unofficial total of 262 supporters of ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista have been shot elsewhere in the country.

The five-member supreme tribunal still has to consider the appeal of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, convicted of war crimes in the first showcase trial last week in Havana's Sports Palace.

The tribunal also has under consideration some 20 appeals from condemned men in the provinces.

More than 1,000 men are still in Havana awaiting trials and a reported 3,000 more are held in the provinces.

SENATOR STEPS DOWN — Sen. Theodore F. Green, 91, (D-R.I.) long-time chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, talks to Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, in Washington, after resigning from his post because of age.

Fulbright Calls for East-West Confab

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration apparently is in line for some sharp prodding from the Senate to move toward high level negotiations with Russia on the Berlin impasse.

This was clearly indicated as Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), a persistent critic of administration foreign policies, prepared to take over as chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Calling for East-West talks on the German problem, Fulbright said he thinks it would be "quite proper to enter into a discussion of the withdrawal of troops from Berlin."

Fulbright, 53, who will succeed next week to the chairmanship vacated Friday by Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), made it clear he isn't very optimistic about dealing with the Russians.

But Fulbright said he thinks the Eisenhower administration has been remiss in not coming up with some proposal to counter the Soviet demand that West Berlin be made a "free city."

Contending the administration apparently has stalled on dead center in dealing with Russia's Berlin demand, Fulbright told a news conference Friday:

"Personally, I think it is important to move toward the withdrawal of foreign troops. It would be a good thing if Russia withdrew its occupation troops from East Germany, Hungary and Romania. 'I am not particularly optimistic about Russia's making any agreements in this field. But it is time we made the Soviets take the responsibility for failing to agree instead of just saying 'no' everytime they propose something.'"

Fulbright emphasized he would not support a withdrawal of U.S. troops unless there was an acceptable agreement on Berlin.

Colleagues said they expect Fulbright, who often has criticized Secretary of State Dulles, to sponsor much stiffer examinations of administration policies than was the rule under Green.

Eight Patients, Fireman Die in Illinois Blaze

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (AP)—Fire which ripped through the Glen Ellyn Acres nursing home Friday took the lives of eight elderly patients and led to the death of a volunteer fireman.

Passersby, firemen and nursing home employees risked their lives to save 12 other patients, two of whom were injured seriously and hospitalized.

Scene of the tragedy was a DuPage County landmark built in 1934 and modeled after an Italian villa.

The dead ranged in age from 67 to 90. The charred bodies of several victims were found in smoldering beds. Some victims managed to get only a few feet from their beds before the flames engulfed them.

Most of the dead were trapped when a portion of the roof collapsed.

Donald Stoffregen, 58, suffered a heart attack shortly after arriving at the scene. He died a few moments later. Glen Ellyn, 35 miles west of Chicago, has a volunteer department.

Damage to the structure was estimated in excess of $50,000. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Investigators said it may have started in a closet on the second floor of the two-story stuccoed building. Those who died were trapped on the second floor.

AUTO PARTS STOLEN

Police reported Friday that two wheel discs, valued at $22.28 each were stolen from Parker Chevrolet garage on W. State St.

Spending Rise For Defenses Seems Likely

Democrats Claim
Money Is Necessary
To Match Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic attempt to accelerate defense spending appeared likely today after Senate testimony that more money is needed to match Soviet space and missile advances.

Two days of a wide ranging Senate inquiry into the status of U.S. preparedness touched off speculation that Senate Democrats may try to expend President Eisenhower's defense budget.

Eisenhower is recommending slightly over 40 billion dollars in defense spending for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Both he and Secretary of Defense McElroy contend this is adequate to cope with any Soviet threat.

As the Senate inquiry went into recess until the middle of next week, Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La) of the House Space Committee announced hearings paralleling the Senate's will begin Monday.

A possible hint to Democratic plans for defense spending came Friday as Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) recessed the inquiry by the combined Senate Space and Preparedness subcommittees.

Johnson, chairman of both groups, said public testimony so far by top defense, space and missile officials indicate there are deficiencies which must be explored behind closed doors because of military secrets involved.

Johnson said the next phase will cover "information as to the aggressive forces that might be thrown against us."

Referring to what he called the decision by McElroy to slash funds and forces for the various

City's 1958 Income Shows $11,281 Drop

The city's income from fines, fees, licenses and costs dropped $11,281.18 to $23,401.64 in 1958, Mayor Harold Smith's annual report shows. The 1957 figure was $34,682.72.

Last year's total was $33,454.54 less than the all-time record of $56,856.18 set in 1956.

The biggest part of the 1958 total, $13,408.55 was collected in fines and fees. State Highway Patrol cases brought in $5,397.32. Building permits enriched the city treasury by $521. License collections totaled $2,007.

April was the best month, financially, for the city when a total of $2,776.97 was collected. March and December were close behind with $2,697.06 and $2,569.84, respectively.

The least profitable month for the city was February when only $1,150.73 was added to the city treasury.

Work Stoppage Ends at Warren Steel Factory

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A work stoppage which started with 350 workers and spread to the entire Republic Steel Corp. plant here has ended.

The company could not say when full operations will be resumed at the plant, which employs 6,000. The plant was shut down completely late Thursday.

Neither the company nor officials of Local 1375 would say what solution was reached in the dispute over use of an entrance, which touched off the walkout Tuesday — and in the subsequent firing of local president James Mulligan.

Mulligan was fired after the company accused him of instigating an unauthorized walkout by coke department employees.

Development Council Tours Local Industries

Continuing its program of local plant visits, the Salem Area Development Council inspected operations at the Cherry Hill Rocker Co. Thursday.

Previously, the 10-man delegation of the Development Council toured the Murray Corporation's Eljer Division as well as the Salem Tool Co.

Next on the visitation schedule are the Save-Way Mfg. Co., the E. W. Bliss Co. and the Deming Co. plants.

The visitations to local industry, under the chairmanship of Gail Herron, "are for the purpose of learning what Salem has in the

Tuition Grant Bill Passed in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Senate supporters of Gov. J. Lindsay Almond say they believe they have enough votes to pass today his program to ease the impact of school integration.

A ruling was expected soon — possibly today — from Chief Justice Earl Warren on the Arlington School Board's request for a delay of enrollment of four Negroes in the Stratford Junior High School.

In Norfolk, school, officials said

Police Investigate Three Car Mishaps

Police investigated three traffic mishaps here Friday and early this morning.

Considerable damage was caused to the car driven by Homer N. Lau, 21, of 436 W. 5th St., at 7:36 p. m. Friday when an auto operated by Cecil L. Felton, 39, of 620 E. Second St. backed into it on E. Pershing St. at a parking lot entrance 100 feet east of Lundy Ave.

Felton's car was slightly damaged.

At 11:20 a. m. Friday, a car operated by Rudolph Fronius, 77, of 1016 Liberty St. pulled from a parking space on S. Broadway into the path of a car driven by Frank D. Baker, 73, of RD 4, Rt. 172, Lisbon.

At 1:10 a. m. today a car operated by Penny Lee Parker, 18, of 280 Benton Road, backed out of a driveway and struck a car owned by John F. Ray of 1835 Fairview Court and parked in front of his home.

"everything is in readiness" for integration Monday of six schools closed last fall.

The Almond program—granting tuition payments to those who don't want to attend integrated schools and repealing compulsory school attendance — already has passed the House of Delegates.

It now is before the Senate Finance Committee, whose membership includes most of the senators who had been seeking stronger action than Almond sought from the special session.

Justice Warren promised Arlington swift action on its request for a delay.

Arlington school officials said plans were complete for enrollment of the Negro children and that no trouble is anticipated should a delay be denied. To make certain no incidents occur, police will block off an area of a half mile surrounding the school Monday morning.

Norfolk police said they had no present plans "to show police force" at the six schools to be integrated there, and expect no violence.

The tuition grant bills sailed through the House of Delegates by unanimous vote, and the school attendance repealer by a count of 99-5. The House also approved a bill making it a felony for a person over 14 to threaten — or communicate the threat of — a bombing.

Salineville Line
Opened After Wreck

SALINEVILLE—Westbound track No. 2 of the Bayard branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad was back in operation at 4:30 a. m. today, 32 hours after the derailment of 35 freight cars near here Thursday night.

E. C. Arney of Cleveland, public relations manager of the railroad's lake region, said today that the cause of the accident has not been determined and that it is still under investigation.

He said that too many variables are involved to predict an accurate estimate of damage at this time.

About 700 feet of track on the No. 2 line were ripped up, along with 1,100 feet of eastbound track No. 1. Nineteen cars were being re-railled today according to Mr. Arney, and it is hoped that No. 1 track will be in service over the weekend. Traffic using this line has been temporarily routed through Salem.

No one was injured, but liberated sheep, lambs and other cattle from the wrecked cars roamed fields until rounded up. Non-toxic petroleum sludge spilled from an overturned tank. The fumes penetrated the home of Harry Bryson, making the four members of the household ill, who left the house to spend the night with relatives.

Former Boyce Brown Die in Hillside, Ill.

CHICAGO (AP) — Brother Matthew, the former Boyce Brown, a well known jazz saxophonist in the late 1930s, died Friday in the Servite seminary in suburban Hillside. He was 47. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack. Brown took his vows of the Roman Catholic service order in 1956. In the early 40s, he was rated by Downbeat magazine as the No. 1 alto sax player in the United States.

High Seas Hamper Search For Danish Freighter In Arctic

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A U.S. Navy radar patrol plane and a German trawler continued searching today for the Danish cargo-passenger ship Hans Hedtoft, last reported sinking after hitting an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

The little German vessel, the Johannes Kruess, continued the search after reporting earlier that ice and heavy seas would force her to give up.

Other ships and planes headed for the stormy, ice-caked area off the southern tip of Greenland to join in the hunt.

Two hours after the Navy plane arrived over the area there was no sign of the Hedtoft, carrying between 95 and 130 persons.

The 2,875-ton Hedtoft hit the iceberg shortly before noon (EST) Friday and radioed less than four hours later that she was "slowly sinking and needed immediate assistance."

The 650-ton Kruess reached the area about an hour after this appeal.

But the wind was 60 m. p. h., icy waves were 20 feet high and fog cut visibility. Then darkness fell.

The German trawler combed the area through the night. Just before daylight there was still no trace of the missing Danish vessel.

The Kruess radioed the approaching U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Campbell:

"Have searched, nothing found or seen, no lights, or lifeboats or ship."

"Plenty ice from northwest...We must go. We are becoming ice bound...It is dangerous for the ship and we can do no more."

The Campbell radioed later, when about 50 miles from the scene:

"No further contact with Hans Hedtoft. Trawler Johannes Kruess still searching. Conditions poor due to weather and darkness. No evidence of (Danish) motor vessel sighted. Trawler reported ice closing in from northwest, however, continuing search. Navy aircraft arrived at 4:30 and searching area."

The Navy Superconstellation was sent 1,000 miles from Argentina.

Halleck Lashes 'Spenders' in Canton Speech

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — "What this country needs," says Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) "is a good belt-tightening."

The Republican minority leader, speaking at an annual McKinley Day banquet commemorating the 116th birthday of William McKinley declared:

"I have spent 24 years in Congress fighting these new deal, wild-eyed spending schemes of the Democrats."

"The Republicans have been called reactionaries and moss-backs, but we believe today in the same principles that McKinley did when he was in Washington. Those are the principles of thrift."

He said President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget proposal is a "great fiscal victory for this country."

Rep. John W. Burns, (R-Wis), said Republicans must do a better selling job.

"We learned last November that we can't take it for granted that people are going to vote for a good program unless we go out and sell it to them," said Burns, policy committee chairman in the House.

Prosecutor Defends Position on Bounties

LISBON — Columbiana County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw issued a statement Friday defending his position regarding the county commissioners' failure to appropriate funds for fox bounties this year.

Replying to charges made by two of the commissioners that he had failed to inform them of the necessity of appropriating bounty funds at the commissioners' organizational meeting Jan. 5, the Prosecutor G. William Brokaw is the matter had not been sought until last Thursday.

Since the commissioners failed to appropriate the funds at their organizational meeting, no money is available to pay the fox bounties and legally, the commissioners cannot now set as de the funds.

Bible Words for Today

I TIMOTHY 4:7b-8 - "Train yourself in godliness; for while bodily training is of some value, godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come."

***

To be spiritually fit is of utmost importance. How well we know this to be true. When we lose out spiritually we are whipped. When our spiritual strength ebbs our physical and mental powers decline. On the other hand, when we experience a spiritual uplift our physical and mental powers increase and we are able for the tasks that confront us. To train one's self in godliness is to practice regularly the devotional habits of prayer and Bible reading—to keep one's self in close communion with God. To be spiritually fit at all times requires holy habits of living and a constant practice of the presence of God. It is our only assurance for this life and on it hangs all hope for the life to come.

The proteins differ from the fats and the starches in that they contain nitrogen in varying amounts.

Nitrogen is necessary for life. Although nitrogen makes up about three-fourths of the air we breathe, this nitrogen is merely breathed in and out with the air and cannot be used by the body.

Prestige Is Not Education

It takes a hundred colleges and universities with education for sale in other parts of the country could borrow the names of half a dozen Eastern schools for a few years, everybody would be better off — students, teachers and parents.

But that's impossible, so the next best thing is to understand what the problem is with the colleges and universities that do not have famous names. They cannot attract students by their fame.

Schools that do attract students by their fame, however, cannot accept more than a fraction of those who apply. This has given rise to the notion there is a shortage of college facilities. The opposite is true.

Dozens of completely competent schools have vacancies in their student rolls. Moreover, they are prepared to give better service to the majority of potential college students than the few schools whose prestige lets them pick and choose. The prestige schools end up by accommodating such a select group that an ordinary student is at a disadvantage.

Harper's Magazine has gone into this matter in its February issue. Martin Mayer, a Harvard graduate, points out that one-fifth of all places in entering college classes go vacant every year. This is because Eastern prestige schools get more applications than they can handle while first-rate schools elsewhere are operating at far less than capacity.

In a list of first-rate colleges picked at random that still have room for students, Mayer includes Wooster. He might have included Mt. Union, Hiram, Muskingum, Otterbein, Heidelberg, or Antioch. Private schools with dominantly local reputations are under the same handicap everywhere.

Education is information, not prestige. The value of education is not rated by its source but by its effect. Some of the nation's most distinguished intellectuals were cultivated in the College of Hard Knocks, which never turned away an applicant.

Candidates for Astronautical Fame

How did the break-point of 40 years get into space thinking? The 110 candidates for space flight training, as described by T. Keith Glennan, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, must be under 40.

So here it comes again — the notion that something happens at the age of 40 that makes a man less competent than he was before. The notion has done incalculable sociological and economic damage. Now it has bobbed up again in specifications for the new race of space astronauts.

There can be no quarrel about the other specifications. Obviously, a space traveler should be a physical scientist or an engineer, to comprehend what he must deal with in space. He should be an aviator. He should be in flawless physical condition. And he should be no taller than 5 feet 11, presumably because that will be the outer limit of the compartment in which he will live on his first space exploration.

But the perfect candidate might be 41, He might be 51. He could be 61. Beyond that, the uncertainty of space being what it is and must remain for some time to come, he might be too old to live long enough to get back, if he comes back.

he comes back.

For centuries, young men have been sent off on all the risky missions of national pride and prestige. When they failed to return, there was a heavy net loss in national manpower—heavier than it would have been if the old man had been sent out to do or die and the young men had been kept home. England, France and Germany are handicapped heavily by the waste of their youth in war. The United States has felt their loss, too.

Before it's too late, NASA should think twice. Shoot the old men to the moon and the planets in the solar system. Once they're over 40, thanks to Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, social security and a lot of young whisperers, they have nowhere else to go.

Capital Punishment Ends the Case

If Ohioans are going to have a debate over the issue of capital punishment, they will discover the importance of a point that has been neglected by debaters in the past.

Many persons who would be in favor of dropping capital punishment, because it is difficult to defend it, are unable to take sides against it because they are afraid of the alternative.

The alternative is not, as is commonly supposed, life imprisonment. All too often what was expected to be imprisonment of indefinite duration has turned out to be of limited duration. While there is life there is hope—and the attempt to release a long-term prisoner is tireless, especially when it is stimulated by money and special influence.

There simply are some crimes, such as cold-blooded murder for pay, that no one wants to be left partly punished.

There are some criminal cases that need to be ended once and for all, not left to someone in the future who may find a way to reopen them in hope of gaining favor or fee. If the opponents of capital punishment could offer a guarantee that the worst criminals never could be sprung for any reason except concrete evidence of innocence, they would be surprised at the ease with which they could make converts to their side.

Relatively few Ohioans want capital punishment for the dubious satisfaction of killing human beings in an electric chair. They want it only to put criminals out of the reach of the people who will try to get them out of jail if they are allowed to live.

Today's opening of the Saxon Lanes bowling alley of the First Transylvanian Society marks a new milestone for the organization.

Members of Branch 19 of the Saxon lodge and Branch 18, the women's auxiliary, have been identified with community life here for many years, contributing individually and collectively to the city's progress and stability.

Once Over

Fidel Castro must have suffered from lack of sleep and advisers in performing do-it-yourself job of changing himself from a hero crusader into a candidate for a Hollywood horror film.

It is not likely a man capable of his courage, dedication, endurance could suddenly become a Wrongway Beatnik, Peck's Bad Boy and VistaVision Dracula unless he was walking in his "sleeplessness."

It could be that after a week in bed this liberator in the pattern of Garibaldi will cease to present a composite picture of Cortez, Pili the Kid, Davy Crockett, Donald Duck Sir Galahad Wong-Way Corrigan Kossuh and Krazy Kat. It was a weird portrait for a time.

Z. PETTIGREW YACKYACK, our personal psychiatrist, says he has studied Fidel carefully. "Castro will come through okay with a few tranquilizers and adequate rest," he says. "His main need is a 'Don't Disturb' sign on bedroom door."

He suffered from same trouble as the no-hit pitcher who reads his press notices through a magnifying glass, and the college football hero who makes six touchdowns, intercepts 22 passes, drives the opposition coach out of town and then thinks he has been voted the man of the year.

"I think he is a brave guy and a dedicated liberator who had lived too long on uncooked herbs and mountain squirrel meat, fought too long with too little and suffered a breakdown in the grand climax of wild cheers."

"The mystery is where were his advisers when he popped off so wildly and had the out-of-character idea that life-or-death trials in a sports arena represented bright behavior?" "Most of his Cabinet are educated, responsible, well balanced men. They had slept well,

He Has Served Well

The decision of Curtis H. Vaughan not to seek re-election as president of City Council should be a challenge to some solid citizens to offer leadership as Council's presiding officer. To date only the Democrats have submitted a candidate for the May primary nomination.

Mr. Vaughan has served in Council for six years and is to be commended for his interest in his community's welfare. A Republican, he has been a guiding force in legislative matters benefiting the city. We hope his successor is equally qualified.

IF CASTRO'S SWITCH from ruthlessness isn't genuine he can kill the cigar business and bring the safety razor its best year.

Mickey Rooney may be cast in the movie to play Pirella LaGuardia. Now for Jackie Gleason to play Al Smith and Tennessee Ernie to take role of Grover Cleveland.

He calls for a livelier GOP. Things have reached the point where you hear people say, "Look, that must be a Republican; I saw him MOVE."

The League of New York Theaters has prevailed on some plays to begin matinees at 2 p.m. This will annoy ladies who regard theater as a cozy spot to spend half a day yack-yacking.

Plenty of folks are asking, "What next in a day when prostitutes' confessions can come into the American home by telecast and when the living room isn't protected from candid interviews on harlotry, with wisecracks and giggles?"

Farm Workers

By MARTIN ARUNDEL

The AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers Union will soon launch an all-out campaign to build a strong union among some two million unorganized farm workers, the lowest paid and most downtrodden segment of the U.S. labor force, a top AWU official disclosed here.

Farm labor leaders expect the AFL-CIO executive council, at its mid-February meeting in San Juan, P.R., to vote the money-pinched, 4,500-member AWU "something like a $250,000 advance" to get its organizing drive under way.

If the union's initial efforts are fruitful, AWU chiefs feel that the AFL-CIO and its rich affiliates will supply sufficient cash for the Farm Workers Union to continue until it has enrolled enough members to become self-sustaining. An estimated 97.5 per cent of the workers in the $3-billion dollar-a-year, union resisting agricultural industry are unorganized today.

ASU President H. L. Mitchell of Washington, D.C., and Ernesto Galarza of San Jose, Calif., the union's secretary treasurer, are slated to direct the unionizing effort. Gardner "Pat" Jackson of Washington, D.C., will handle the campaign's public relations and legislative matters.

Mitchell, son of an Arkansas sharecropper, in 1934 helped to found the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, forerunner of the AWU and has been an agricultural labor leader since. American-born of Mexican ancestry, Galarza holds a PhD Degree in economics from Columbia University and is a widely recognized authority on farm labor problems. "Pat" Jackson, a former newspaperman and a high official of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in early New Deal days, has long been intimately associated with labor causes.

MEANWHILE, the AWU's organizing drive is getting large support from the National Advisory Committee on Farm Labor (NACFL), a group of prominent citizens interested in alleviating the hear sub-human living conditions of farm workers. The committee will hold public hearings in the nation's capital, Feb. 5 and 6, to spotlight what it calls "our nation's disgrace."

NACFL Secretary Fay Bennett hopes that testimony at the hearings from farm workers, employers, state and federal officials, clergymen and social workers will "enlighten" the public, Congress and organized labor about such facts as:

1. The national average wage of farm workers, according to Department of Agriculture statistics, is 72.8 cents per hour, while that of factory workers is $2.12. Lowest rates are paid in Mississippi, 40¢ cents; South Carolina, 42.1 cents; Alabama, 42.3 cents and Tennessee, 43.7 cents.

Highest wages are paid in Washington, $1.20; Oregon, $1.12; California, $1.10 and Connecticut, $1.65. Farm workers who earn more than $1,200 a year are at the top of the economic ladder in the agricultural industry.

2. Agricultural workers are excluded from practically all state and federal welfare laws, including the national $1 minimum wage and the National Labor Relations Act.

3. Farm hands and their families, particularly migrants and imported foreign contract laborers, often live in hovels without adequate sanitary facilities.

4. Sickness and injury rates are higher among farm workers and their families than any other group in the country. Medical and hospital care is frequently not available to them.

5. Employers pay little heed to state child labor laws and the children of farm workers are ruthlessly exploited.

6. Most children of agricultural workers, especially migrants, get no more than an elementary education, some not even that. By the time most of them are in their early teens, they're toiling in the fields besides their parents to get enough food for the family. School authorities in numerous farm communities discourage their attendance.

7. Farm employers using imported foreign contract labor more often than not violate the agreements under which the importees were hired. Most recent government estimate of the number of imported farm laborers, the majority of whom are employed on big corporation farms, known as "factory farms," is 500,000.

Most of them are from Mexico; the rest from the West Indies, the Bahamas, Puerto Rico and a small number from the Philippines and Japan.

8. Factory farm operators play off the economic needs of native agricultural workers against those of imported hands to keep wages at a minimum and to prevent the unionization of farm workers.

CO-CHAIRMEN of the NACFL are former U.S. Sen. Frank P. Graham (D-NC) and A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and an AFL-CIO vice president.

Among other notables serving on the NACFL are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt; former U.S. Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY); the Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, Roman Catholic Archbishop of San Antonio, Tex.; Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president, National Council of Churches; Rabbi Eugene J. Lipman, director of Social Action, Union of American Hebrew Congregations and Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California.

Mitchell and Galarza of the AWU believe that as soon as the union is strong enough to win collective bargaining contracts from employers, much of the want, misery and injustice with which farm workers live will be eliminated. Both say they have worked out an organizing plan, details of which they will not disclose but which they are confident will be successful.

They indicated, however, their first targets will be the factory farms in Arizona, California and Texas.

In the beginning they apparently intend to concentrate on signing up regularly employed workers who have homes and established ties in the areas in which they work.

They also intend to drum up support in the communities from churches, small businessmen and small farmers and from other unions.

Persistent Theme

By RALPH MCGILL

Is U.S. Republic or Democracy?

One of the most plaintively persistent themes of letters-to-the-editor is:

"The United States is not a democracy. It is a republic."

All editors are familiar with this exercise in semantics. There are apostles of the republic idea who write in red-faced fury, objecting to use of the word democracy.

This is in keeping with the times. Indeed, it is an excellent illustration of the complexity of it when even religions are founded on phrases lifted out of biblical context. Men and women fondle serpents to prove their faith. And there are those who make a very serious business of the republic-vs.-democracy theme. Like most such debates, it is essentially a non sequitur.

Let us turn to Webster's New World Dictionary. The definitions involved are these:

"Republic: (French, 'republique'; Latin, 'res publica'; 'res', a thing, 'affair interest plus 'publica' the feminine of 'publicus', the public.) (1) A state or nation in which the supreme power rests in all the citizens entitled to vote, and is exercised by representatives elected, directly or indirectly, by them and responsible to them."

"Democracy: (French, 'democratie'; Latin, 'democratia'; Greek, 'demokratia'); democracy, popular government. (Demos, the people, plus Krates to rule.) (1) Government by the people either directly or through elected representatives, rule by the ruled. (2) A country, state, community, etc. with such government. (3) Majority rule."

ASSUREDLY, those who enjoy straining at gnats may be able, to their own satisfaction at least, to see here a great difference. A republic is a nation in which the power rests in those who are entitled to vote and in which that power is exercised by elected representatives. A democracy is government by the people either directly or through elected representatives.

A good many of those who write so furiously about the Republic concept do so in discussing civil rights bills. They seem to be arguing such bills are not possible in a republic. This, on its face, is the sheerest nonsense. Again, we come back to the definition of a republic and a democracy.

The power of the people to determine what they want done is positive in both.

Plainly and quite inescapably, a republic may extend the processes of democracy.

A republic may make itself more democratic by bringing more people to the ballot—or less democratic by restricting them.

The fact that the United States currently is seeking to see to it that the right of qualified Negro voters to use the ballot is not restricted by Alabama and other Southern states assuredly has nothing to do with whether we are a republic or a democracy.

THE UNITED STATES is quite obviously a republic carrying out the powers of a republic to extend democracy (rule by the people) to more of its qualified citizens.

So, where are we?

We obviously get nowhere insofar as the contending fanatics are concerned. They will be neither convinced nor mollified. But, for the patient, pedestrian citizen, who pays his taxes and loves his country the controversy about a republic and a democracy is an exercise for bubble heads.

He is a citizen of a republic which can extend the benefits of democracy. He may not always agree, but he prefers it to totalitarianism.

In fact, this might well be the punch line, or the definitive definition. A republic is a nation with a flexible form of government which may be changed by the will of the voters. They may expand or restrict the rights of the citizen. For about 100 years they have been of a mind to give more qualified citizens a voice in government. That is democracy.

Isn't it a fine and wonderful thing to live in a republic which believes in and practices, democracy?

Not a Betting Proposition

By TRUMAN TWILL

It is unlikely I ever will own and operate a boat. But I am not going to bet on it.

The National Motor Boat Show that has just had a sensational run in New York sold nearly 30 million dollars' worth of boats, engine and accessories in a week and a half.

Manufacturers cleaning up on the boating craze estimate their market this year will add up to two and a half billion dollars, a husky 15 per cent over last year. Boats are big business even when they're small. It is possible to get $10,000 tied up in one without trying. Even modest mariners who have been caught up in the craze are putting as much into boats as they used to put into cars.

If auto manufacturers haven't been told by their sales analysts that boat owners think in terms of their cars as prestige symbols, they haven't been getting their money's worth of analysis.

The airplane craze that was going to sweep this country never came to pass, because airplanes were awkward to store and operate. For a time, it looked as if a genius might make a plane that could be kept in the garage with its wings folded, but in the meantime a genius did show how to tow a boat behind an automobile. That did it!

Anyone who lived within driving range of water could have a boat after that. Boating no longer was a luxury restricted to people who lived near the shoreline.

Though some of us will never own and operate boats of our own, it would be risky to bet on, with things the way they are. Tens of thousands of boat-owners once would have been willing to wager they'd never belong to the Swiss navy.

That's what it is — the Swiss navy.

It is many times the size of the historic flotilla that floated the beleaguered British expeditionary force off the beaches at Dunkirk. If all the boats in it were put into the water at once, the displacement would raise the tide at Hongkong two inches.

If all the boats, boat trailers and automobiles and trucks to pull the trailers were lined up end to end, they would reach around the world twice, with 200 runabouts and 300 cruisers left over.

If all the capital represented were put into one pile, every taxpayer in Washington would grab a shovel and come a-running.

Undoubtedly the next big work-relief project in this country will be a two-lane east-west canal from New York to Seattle for the convenience of the Swiss navy, with a duplicate facility running the same direction further south, where it will be ice-free the year 'round.

This will be connected in due time with canals running north and south and to all other points of the compass, because boat owners, like auto owners, will not be denied all the comforts and conveniences the public owes them in pursuit of their happiness.

There even will come to be, in due course of time, an amphibious automobile that will do away with boat trailers, relieve congestion in the garage, give the owner more latitude in getting away for long weekends and cut the auto industry in on the biggest opportunity for new business since hydraulic brakes.

Then, if ever, I will own and operate a boat, probably something the size of a dinghy that will get 22 miles to the gallon on land and two-thirds as much on water, wit galley and sleeping room aft for four midgets or two adults. But not until then — though I wouldn't bet on it.

In the Lord put I my trust: how say ye to my soul, Flee as a bird to your mountain?—Psalms 11:1.

Trust in God for great things. With your five loves and two fishes He will show you a way to feed thousands.—Horace Bushnell.

Barbs

Try to remember that a flu sneeze is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

It takes about fifty years for a man to realize that a fellow should work hard and save while he's young.

One loud speaker on the TV can easily be drowned out by two little ones running around the house.

A judge says it's natural for a wife to want to run things around the house. We'll bet that doesn't include the vacuum or the washing machine.

Life's Basic Needs

According to some of the human behavior experts, the average person today has 10 basic needs or requirements for rounding out his life and developing his personality to the fullest measure of happiness and satisfaction.

Here's the list:

1. Orientation within the world in which we live.
2. A means of escape from reality.
3. Emotional identification with the needs of others.
4. A sense of being individualistic.
5. A method for expressing aggressiveness.
6. A feeling of being moral.
7. A heightened sense of life, excitement, emotion.
8. Relaxation and day dreaming.
9. A need to cope with personal problems.
10. A need to cope with intellectual and spiritual problems.

HOW DO YOU measure up with this list? Is any one or more than one of these so-called basic needs not being satisfied in your life? Probably so. And no wonder!

There are obvious conflicts in this list.

How can we orient ourselves with the needs of others and hope to escape reality?

Can we adopt just any method of expressing aggressiveness and still have a feeling of being moral?

Where do we draw the line between excitement and heightened emotion on the one hand and relaxation and day dreaming on the other?

When was it decided that we should make a distinction between personal problems and intellectual and spiritual problems?

THE PERSON who tries to satisfy all these needs is likely to find himself in a state of confusion.

This entire list is pointed exclusively toward personal self-satisfaction. At no place do we find service to our fellow man as the prime motive.

Compare the foregoing with the following list of human needs today:

1. An end to selfishness and greed.
2. Mutual trust between the peoples of the world.
3. Cessation of war and needless bloodshed.
4. A strong conviction toward honesty, faithfulness, loyalty, justice.
5. Universal acceptance of the rights of others.
6. Personal humility.
7. A realistic approach to duty and responsibility.
8. Morality, not merely a feeling of being moral.
9. Appreciation for life as a precious gift.
10. Acceptance of the Fatherhood of God and the common brotherhood of men, everywhere.

Which lists more nearly fits your needs?

THE CATHEDRAL WE LIVE IN

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mt. Whitney in California: 14,496 feet high! Just one of the spires of the cathedral we live in.

When God made this world of ours he gave us many a glimpse of Himself. In the towering peaks we see His dignity—in the fertile plains, His providence—in the wild storms, His wrath—in the shimmering rainbow, His mercy—in the mighty falls, His strength—in the mirror lake, His peace.

But to reveal His Love—the greatest quality of God's nature—He gave us His Son, Jesus Christ . . . born in a stable . . . slain on a cross . . . risen to reign forever.

This world is the Cathedral in which men worship Him. Its altars are the churches to which the faithful throng.

Life is God's gift: To live in His Cathedral . . . and work . . . and play . . . and WORSHIP!

Salem Humbles East Liverpool 72-45 For 10th Win In Row

Potters Stall In Second Half

Dave Hunter Paces Quakers With 25

By GORDON ARNDT
It was a normal and "all-Salem" first half Friday night at East Liverpool, but the second half turned out to be a three-ring circus as the sixth-ranked Quakers defeated the Potters 72-45 for their 10th straight win and 13th in 14 starts.

The Potters lost their 10 in a row and now own a seasonal mark of 1-13.

Salem set a blistering pace in the first half sinking 22 of 41 shots (53 per cent) and racing to a commanding 52-23 margin at intermission. Dave Hunter who finished the game as the high point man with 25, set the pace for Salem in the first half with 21 tallies.

East Liverpool was completely outclassed in the first 16 minutes. The Potters couldn't dent Salem's tight-checking defense and were helpless as the Quakers bombed the hoop with uncanny accuracy.

BEHIND HUNTER WAS Lou Slaby with 13 points and 14 rebounds, then Woody Deitch with 12 and Dan Krichbaum with 10. Bob Mackall had 12 for the Potters.

Potter coach John Karaffa tried a "lonesome man" in the first few minutes. He had Ken Cunningham hang around Salem's basket and depended on four men alone to check the Quakers' attack. It didn't work.

Either Deitch, Hunter or Krichbaum fell back quick enough to prevent any long passes for an easy EL score.

The second half performance by the Potters was what made Salem fans roar. They went into a deliberate although 25 points behind, stall, and the game approached a whole-sale freeze.

East Liverpool tried but 11 shots in the second half and made seven of them. Salem was afforded only 15 shots, hitting on nine.

THE PACE was fast in the first half with the Quakers bowling over the Potters all the way. The Potters tallied one more point in the first half by running than they did in the second by stalling.

Throughout the game Salem made 31 of 56 shots for 55.3 per cent while the Potters hit on 16 of 37 for 43.2 per cent.

In the final period the Quakers were ahead 69-42 with 3:18 left when they started to stall themselves. The officials called time and warned them to force the issue.

Hunter was the big scorer for Salem in the first half, but Deitch collected six assists in passing off to him teammates.

The defensive play of Krichbaum and Lehwald along with Marks was outstanding. Salem scored eight buckets in the first half because of the harassing of the Potters by these three men. They stole the ball or baited it into position for a Salem score.

SALEM MENTOR John Cabas did not substitute until 1:10 remained in the game. Then he inserted Lehwald, Ed Yates, Rick Theiss, Tim Burchfield and Jim Solmen for the regular five.

Salem used a semi-press throughout the game while East Liverpool maintained a man to man defense.

The Quakers shot into a 3-0 lead on a bucket by Slaby and a foul by Hunter.

Cunningham hit for EL but then the Quakers scored seven straight points, six by Hunter and one by Deitch. Mackall tallied for EL to make it 10-4 but then Salem went on another spur to make it again.

Salem led 27-13 at the quarter. Their tight defense and fast breaking against the Potters' unorganized team were too much for the eventual losers.

SALEM'S SLABY was particularly effective underneath the board in scoring on follow-up shots.

The game developed into a rout in the second frame when Salem outpointed EL 25-10 to take a 29-point half time lead.

It was a familiar story in the first half. Slaby and Marks would rebound and Deitch, Hunter Krichbaum or Lehwald would fast break for two points. These last four also played good defense in stealing the ball for each other.

The Potters possessed no offensive patterns. It seemed Mackall and Cunningham did all the shooting while the three other Potters stood around and watched.

The circus act started at the outset of the third frame when EL went into a deliberate stall and semi-freeze. They did not force the issue and did not try to shoot very often. They made five of five shots in the frame on layups when Salem would try to double team. A quick pass to an open mate would result in a score. The fourth frame was like the third, except, Salem went into their own stall with three minutes left.

Bob Duffy, sports editor of the East Liverpool Review, and Chuck Cronin, another Review sports-writer, said that the game was the best the Potters played this year.

Salem will now be home for the season playing games with Boardman, Akron St. Vincent, Akron East and Girard.

Bucs Get Haddix, Burgess, Hoak

Redlegs-Pirates Trade Sends Frank Thomas to Cincinnati

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh has landed a needed left-handed starting pitcher in Harvey Haddix and a solid left-handed hitting catcher in Smokey Burgess in a deal that sent slugger Frank Thomas to the Cincinnati Redlegs.

In addition to Haddix and Burgess, the Pirates Friday night picked up a regular third baseman in Don Hoak from the Redlegs.

Cincinnati acquired outfielder John Powers, handyman Jim Pendleton and pitcher Whammy Douglas in addition to Thomas.

A powerful right-handed batter, Thomas hit .281, smashed 35 home runs and drove in 109 runs for the second-place Pirates last season. Manager Danny Murtaugh was in dire need of a southpaw pitcher and a good-hitting catcher.

Haddix, a veteran, had an 8-7 record for Cincy last year. Burgess, sought after by almost every team in the league, finished with a .285 average.

Hoak gives the Pirates a regular third baseman who hit .261 for the Redlegs.

In Douglas, the Redlegs get a 23-year-old right-hander who showed some promise when he was called up by the Pirates late in the 1957 season and posted a 3-3 mark.

Pendleton, 33-year-old infielder and outfielder, formerly was with the Milwaukee Braves and Pirates. Powers, 29, appeared in 57 games with Pittsburgh, mostly as a pinch hitter and batted .183.

Goshen Defeats Warren Quintet

St. Mary's Team Loses 11th Game

Goshen's Gophers shook off a determined Warren St. Mary's quintet with a second quarter surge and went on to record their tenth victory of the season, 73-62 Friday night at Goshen. Joe Tucker's team has lost four. Warren's record stands at one win and 11 losses.

Bud Anderson led the Gophers' attack with 18 points and Ed Daugherty was close behind with 17 markers. Lynn Barnett chipped in with 14 and George Wallace tallied 12 to aid the Goshen cause. Ritzie led the St. Mary's with 22 points. Gallo had 14 for the Warren squad.

The game started slowly and the Warren quintet grabbed a 14-12 lead at the end of the first quarter. Goshen couldn't seem to cope with the St. Mary's deliberate attack.

In the second period, however, the Gophers began to roll. Led by the rebounding of Daugherty and the deadly fast break combination of Wallace and Anderson, Goshen caught fire and raced to a 36-30 halftime lead.

Tucker's team widened the gap to 51-40 at the end of the third quarter and the ballclubs each scored 22 points in the final eight minutes to make the final score 73-62.

Goshen's next game will be tonight when they travel to Greenford. The Gophers defeated the Bobcats earlier in the season.

Did any of you see Mrs. H. W. Reeves of 567 N. Ellsworth Ave. on Art Linkletter's "House Party" Tuesday afternoon? Art interviewed her and introduced her to actor Bob Cummings. Mrs. Reeves has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. David Steybe in Los Angeles.

Wayne Dunn, son of the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Dunn of Salem, is one of six Mount Union College students in the basic design class whose work was exhibited in a show recently at the college. A senior majoring in music, Wayne is active in many campus activities.

DR. WADE MCGHEE has the Kiwanis Kapers Chorus back at work for the show coming up in four weeks. Members of the chorus this year include Howard Moore, Walter Hunston, William Koloszi, Chuck Merrill, Donald Hammell, Wallace King, Harold Smith, Orin Naragon, Joe Pales, Gordon

Scott, Louis Manieri, Ralph Landert, Norm Houser, Robert Kaminsky, Jim Giffin, William Malloy, and George Jones.

We learned that Kapers this year will be an all-Gershwin show done in cabaret-style. The "dancing" chorus has been scheduled for a return engagement. Tom Williams and Keith Riffe are making special musical arrangements.

When we returned a book recently to R. T. Culberson of Roosevelt Ave., and opened the door of his candy shop, there was the most luscious sight of Easter candy laid out on the tables, including chocolate puppies with blue-candy eyes. Mr. Culberson said that he will soon have been in the candy-making business 39 years.

HARRY IZENOUR, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Izenour of 688 Fair St., is on the dean's list for the fall quarter at Kent State. He is attending Kent on an art scholarship. Last fall he entered some of his art work in a show, and is now preparing to enter a college art show coming up this spring.

Little theater work isn't all grease paint and glamor. When the Salem Players recently purchased over 200 theater seats from the old Youngstown Playhouse, 13 members of the Salem Players went over to that old dusty, dirty theater, got down on hands and knees to unbolt every seat from the cement floor, loaded them onto trucks and brought them back to Nell Mossey's barn. . . all done in that terrible weather last Sunday afternoon. And that is just the beginning of the project of turning the barn into a summer theater.

Manslaughter Case To Be Heard Monday

The non-support case of Harris Shasteen of Hanoverton RD 1 was postponed because his attorney had other commitments.

Henry William Bradbury, 48, of Lisbon RD, accused of shooting with intent to wound his step-son, will waive a jury trial Judge Joel H. Sharp will hear the case which had been scheduled next for a jury trial.

Kentucky Fried Chicken

Here's a delicious "Old South" treat.

Plump, succulent young chicken fried to a turn, by a special process developed by myself, sealing in all the natural goodness and flavor. Before frying, the chicken is dipped in milk, then dredged in flour seasoned with herbs and spices lending a zesty richness that you will love. Truly a MEMORABLE MOUTH-WATERING TREAT.
